Novara International – Cookie Policy

Last updated: December 4, 2025

This Cookie Policy explains how Novara International (“Novara”, “we”, “us”, “our”) uses cookies and similar technologies on our websites and within our Platform (the “Services”). It should be read together with our Privacy Policy.

By continuing to use the Services after seeing our cookie banner, you agree to the use of cookies as described in this policy, unless you disable them via your browser or our cookie settings (where available).

1. What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small text files that are stored on your device when you visit a website. They are widely used to make websites work, improve user experience, and provide information to website owners.

We may also use similar technologies such as web beacons, pixels, and local storage, which are treated as cookies for the purposes of this policy.

2. Types of Cookies We Use

2.1 Strictly Necessary Cookies

These cookies are essential for the operation of the Services and cannot be switched off in our systems. They are usually set in response to actions you take, such as logging in, navigating between pages, or accessing secure areas of the Platform.

If you block these cookies, some parts of the Services may not function properly.

2.2 Functional Cookies

These cookies enable enhanced functionality and personalization, such as remembering your preferences or settings. If you disable them, certain features may not work as intended.

2.3 Analytics and Performance Cookies

These cookies help us understand how visitors use the Services by collecting information such as pages visited, time spent, and error messages encountered. We use this information to improve performance and user experience.

Where required by law, we will only use analytics cookies with your consent.

2.4 Marketing and Advertising Cookies

We may, from time to time, use cookies to deliver relevant advertisements or to measure the effectiveness of our marketing campaigns. Such cookies may be set by us or by third-party partners.

Where required by law, we will only use marketing cookies with your consent.

3. Third-Party Cookies

Some cookies on the Services may be set by third-party providers, including:

- Analytics and performance tools
- Payment processors or Escrow Services
- Embedded content or widgets

These third parties may use cookies in connection with their own services and privacy practices. We encourage you to review their privacy and cookie policies for more information.

4. How to Manage Cookies

4.1 Browser Settings

You can configure your browser to refuse cookies, to delete existing cookies, or to notify you before cookies are placed. The exact steps depend on your browser, but instructions are generally available in the browser's help menu.

Please note that disabling or deleting certain cookies may affect the functionality of the Services and your ability to use some features.

4.2 Cookie Banner and Preferences

Where required by law, we provide a cookie banner or preference tool when you first visit our website, allowing you to accept or reject certain categories of cookies (such as analytics and marketing). You can change your preferences at any time by adjusting your settings in the banner or tool, where available.

5. Do Not Track

Some browsers offer a “Do Not Track” (DNT) setting that signals your preferences to websites. At this time, we do not respond to DNT signals, because there is no consistent industry standard for doing so. We will review and may update this approach if such a standard emerges.

6. Changes to this Cookie Policy

We may update this Cookie Policy from time to time to reflect changes in our practices, technologies, or legal requirements. When we do, we will revise the “Last updated” date and, where appropriate, provide additional notice.

7. Contact
